

AXIGEN widens its partnership network in Switzerland

Bucharest, September Oct 16th, 2006 -- AXIGEN, the professional messaging solutions vendor, announced today the inclusion in its partner network of a new Gold level Value Added Reseller in Switzerland, SCS TeleMedia AG.

Founded in 1997, the company's initial focus was on network communication, by providing people with easy access to communication media, such as email and the highly emerging World Wide Web. Over time, the requirements in the communication area changed from making access easy, to making it as secure and as easy as possible. Starting in 1996, SCS TeleMedia AG began selling and installing security solutions for network access and email, which has since then evolved into the main business of the company.

"AXIGEN Mail Server is a worthy addition to our company's product portfolio in many ways. AXIGEN Mail Server provides secure and easy access to email from any place where you can find an internet connected computer. Backed up by the excellent support of AXIGEN and the local distributor Boxtec, AXIGEN Mail Server is an outstanding email solution for any small to medium size company or entity needing a messaging solution with state-of-the-art antispy and antivirus built in features," stated Nadja Burri at SCS TeleMedia AG.

"I would like to wish a warm welcome into the AXIGEN family to TeleMedia AG," commented Oana Bornaz, AXIGEN CEO. "Since the initial stages of development of our product, we realized that, due to its complexity, as well as the integration with other third party software, AXIGEN products are better suited for distribution, rather than direct selling, since a local partner has in-depth knowledge of customer needs and market characteristics. Therefore, we have decided to build a strong network of valuable partners who will help us reach worldwide market and further increase the awareness of our brand," added Oana Bornaz.

###

Company profile:

Founded in 2001, GECAD TECHNOLOGIES was first involved in technology research and project management and has initially offered services for antivirus industry. Since 2003, we have concentrated on a new technology: messaging solutions, under the brand AXIGEN.

Our mission is to build AXIGEN Mail Server to be a fast, reliable and secure internet messaging solution, offering the power and sturdiness of a carrier class mail server. Building trust in our products, as well as in our business relationships, we team-up with AXIGEN users and partners to achieve this goal. For further details, please visit: www.axigen.com

GECAD TECHNOLOGIES is a member of the GECAD Group.

About SCS TeleMedia AG:

The solutions offered by SCS TeleMedia AG provide tens of thousands of users worldwide with secure and easy access to information and communication media that is needed in modern business models. More information on the company can e found at www.telemedia.ch